CACHE CREEK FRIDAY

How can Friday the 13th possibly bring me luck, you ask? Well, thanks to the kind folks at Cache Creek Casino, the first 5,000 fans 18 and older, get a scratch card with a guaranteed prize. No amount of bad juju can keep you from your just reward. You can test it. Get out of bed on the same side you got in. Open an umbrella inside and distribute hats on all the beds in the house. When you leave for the game, take the opportunity to pass under a few ladders. Just before you reach the gate, step on all the cracks you can find in the sidewalks, crossing the paths of black cats along the way. Any way you slice it you still come up a winner. Warning: Do not tempt fate on any other day of the week.

ECK CELEBRATION WEEKEND
DENNIS ECKERSLEY
FIGURINE

This weekend we honor newly-minted Hall of Famer Dennis Eckersley in a pre-game celebration befitting royalty. A week ago he was only the third reliever inducted into the Hall of Fame. His whipsaw sidearm motion, pinpoint control and steely determination are truly the stuff of hero worship. And what regal figure would do without a charming figurine bearing their likeness? This little number 43 wears natty home whites and, of course, the dashing, well-trimmed moustache. And just like Eck used to point to catcher Terry Steinbach after closing another gem, he points to you. Not in an angry way. Just to say, "Hey you, I know you."

BOBBLEHEAD

A pint-sized baseball legend is what you need to guide you through life. Who knows better what path to take? Just set your Dennis Eckersley Bobblehead on a small mound of your own creation and give him a signal. If he nods, for goodness sake, rethink your strategy.
